SG1A 1. (S/SK/WNINTEL) In response to your request for information SG1A concerning a suspected nuclear event [REDACTED]

SG1A a. (S/SK/WNINTEL) Source tends to confirm the suspected SG1A nuclear event. Source describes the area [REDACTED] as having a SG1A structure (not further identified). At approximately [REDACTED] [REDACTED] an event of some magnitude occurred, perhaps involving this structure, which source described as bright warm colors, loud rumble noises, and whirling sooty, gritty sensations. Source commented that this was very much like a dust storm or an explosion. People involved with this event (not further identified) were surprised by its occurrence. Prior to the event people were relaxed, watchful, even bored. There was a sudden clatter (not further identified) which surprised the people who began running back and forth.
Source further described the temperature at this point in the event as being hot (not further identified).

b. (S/SK/WNINTEL) Source provided no further amplifying
